BUTLER, MISSOURI, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1914.

NUMBER 2

Congressman C. C. Dickinson

Will address the voters at Butler in the Circuit Court Room

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 30, AT 2:00 P. M.

Hume, October 30, at 7:30 p. m.

Clement C. Dickinson of the Sixth District, has ably filled the shoes of his distinguished predecessor, the late Representative DeArmond, and in his two terms here has become an influential member of the Committee on Ways and Means, presided over by Majority Leader Underwood. The tariff originated in this committee, and Mr. Dickinson did much of the important work. He also was instrumental in changing the war tax measure so as to eliminate the proposed tax on freight. He has been a constant thorn in the side of Republican calamity howlers, who make a practice of attacking the administration. Mr. Dickinson has a decidedly "unpopular to the opposition" habit of "calling" the mendacious coterie.—W. J. Cochrane in The St. Louis Republic.

To The Voters.

The Executive Committee of the Democratic Central Committee has so far been unable to secure any speakers of national reputation to come to Bates county, but are yet putting forth every effort to secure strong men for the larger towns of the county before the campaign closes.

This matter was left largely to the State Committee's Speaker's Bureau, and owing to the well known fact that Bates county will deliver her usual overwhelming Democratic majorities and the demands of counties and the City of St. Louis the State Committee has been unable to send us any one.

Our Committee, however, will not desist in its efforts to secure dates for the places not yet made and will continue its efforts to make this the greatest and most unanimous endorsement of Democracy and the present administration that Bates county has ever experienced.
